JUDGE JAMES HARGIS SLAIN BY HIS SON.

Famous Jackson Store Scene of Bloody Tragedy. Killing Result of Slight Difference Between Father and Son.

A special dated Jackson, Ky., February 6th, 4 p.m., says: Five shots rang out in rapid succession at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and Judge James Hargis fell dead in his own store at the hands of his son, Beach Hargis.

The killing is the result of some slight difference between Judge Hargis and his son, the worst previous difficulty having happened in Judge Hargis' home only a few nights ago when the father was compelled to resort to violence to restrain the son.

Young Hargis had been drinking very heavily for some time, and it had been feared that this tragedy would happen.

He approached his father in the store this afternoon, in a drunken condition. When the latter accosted him about drinking, Beach went behind the counter in the store and fired upon his father, with a fatal result as stated.

James Brophy, (formerly of Bourbon and brother of John Brophy) chief clerk in Judge Hargis' store, was waiting on a customer in the same room at the time of the tragedy, but was unable to reach the scene in time to restrain the drink-frenzied boy. The young lady bookkeeper in the store and a lady customer were also in the room at the time, but ran at the first shot.

Judge Hargis said nothing after he was shot except to call for mercy and some other exclamations. He was immediately carried to his home, where he expired within about ten minutes after shooting.

Young Hargis was immediately arrested by Town Marshals Govan Smith and Grover Blanton and placed in jail.

He was a raving maniac and the officers were compelled to drag him to jail.

The tragedy caused great excitement and consternation in town, and the streets were soon crowded with people.

Young Hargis is twenty-one years old, and had been very reckless for the past few years.

Senatorial Ballot.

There was no material change in the result of the Senatorial ballot Wednesday, the first for several days, except that Mr. Campbell went back to Blackburn, and Messrs. Lillard and McKnight voted for McCleary again, while Mueller voted for E. M. Flexner. The result was: Beckham, 59; Bradley, 58; McCleary, 3; Allen, 2; Blackburn, 1; Flexner, 1.

In the Senatorial ballot yesterday Senator Charlton voted for Henry Watterson, and Representative Mueller voted for John M. Atherton. Representative Ferland gave notice that on today by his own invitation he would deliver an address on the senatorial situation in the joint assembly.

The ballot resulted: Bradley, 59; Beckham, 60; McCleary, 2; Allen, 2; Blackburn, 1; Watterson, 1; Atherton, 1.

DEATHS.

Mrs. Mary J. Batterton, aged 85 years, died early Tuesday morning, at the residence of her son, Mr. B. A. Batterton, near Shawhan, from the infirmities of old age.

Mrs. Batterton was a native of Warren county, Kentucky, and had lived in Bourbon for more than half a century. She is survived by one son, B. A. Batterton, and two daughters, Mrs. Jeff Shepard, of Cincinnati, and Mrs. John McDaniel, of near Millersburg.

The funeral took place from the residence at 11 o'clock a.m. The services conducted by Rev. C. C. Fisher, of Millersburg. The interment was in the Jacksonville cemetery.

Mark G. Childs, widely known employe of the Adams Express Company, formerly of this city, died at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Fannie Rees, at Mt. Sterling, quite suddenly early Wednesday morning. He had been feeling badly for some time and went home a few days ago to recuperate. He was seen on our streets here Monday and said he was laying off to take a course of medicine.

He came down stairs for a light during the first part of the night and returned to his room. Shortly after midnight Mrs. Lou Jordan, who slept in the room adjoining, heard Mr. Childs groaning and going into his room found him dying. He expired in a few seconds. Mr. Childs was about 41 years old, and a widower, his wife, formerly Miss Lula Reese, of Mt. Sterling, dying a few years ago, leaving him with three children two girls and one boy. Mr. Childs was popular with a large circle of friends. He was a brother of Mrs. Henry Spears, of this city. He carried an insurance policy of $3,000.

Paris Boy Wins Prominent Case.

The Court of Appeals, Wednesday, Judge Settle writing, the whole court sitting, reversed the Jefferson Criminal Court in the case of Sam Spencer, colored, for the murder of Mary Virginia Sour. The appellant was given a death sentence.

Spencer was represented by Mr. Ray Mann, son of Judge and Mrs. Russell Mann, who is fast gaining prominence as an attorney in Louisville. Mr. Mann made lengthy argument before the higher court in behalf of his client.

This is one of a number of prominent cases Mr. Mann has won in the Court of Appeals since beginning the practice of law in Louisville only a short time. Such boys are an honor to our old town.

Brave Little Brother.

At Mt. Sterling, Joseph Regan, aged six, saved his four-year-old sister Nell from burning to death by throwing a cloth around her, smothering the flames. Her clothes were burned off, but she was uninjured, as was the little hero. They are children of Mike Regan, secretary on the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad.

Republican Senatorial Gossip.

It was reported in certain quarters Tuesday night, says the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, that the end of the Senatorial fight is in sight, and it will come about through the agency of the county unit local option bill.

According to the plan outlined on the county unit bill will be taken from the Committee on Religion and Morals and recommitted to the Committee on Kentucky Statutes. This will be a victory for the liquor men, and later the bill will be killed and in exchange for the help of the Republicans in killing the anti-Beckham Democrats will vote for Bradley. If this fails to elect him Bradley will, according to the story, withdraw from the race and let the Republicans unite on some anti-Beckham Democrat and elect him.

This cannot be brought about for ten days or two weeks, but that is the best information that can be secured on the situation.

Willson Appoints Army Officer.

A United States Regular Army officer has been appointed to the temporary command of the Kentucky State Guard. Adjutant General P. P. Johnson leaves Thursday for New York to preside at the meeting of the National Congress of Trotting Horsemen. From there he will go to Florida to spend several weeks and in the meantime Capt. W. N. Hughes, of Columbia, Tenn., who is a retired captain of the United States Army, has been selected as Adjutant General Pro Tem. Capt. Hughes was under Gen. Shafter in the Spanish-American war and took part in the battle of San Juan.

In Dry Georgia.

"I never seen de ol' kunnel so interested in de railroad schedules as sense Georgia broke out wid prohibition," said Brother Dickel. "W'y he kep' de teleform red hot all day long teleform, ter know of de trains is on time; an' w'en dey wuz three hours late you couldn't stay 'roun' de house for him! Dat man used some cuss words dat I ain't hearn befo' since Freedom. But all er a sudden he quit—ater he had the teleform took out, an' tol' um he never wanted fer to see its face or hear its voice in his hous' agin! Den I ax him: 'How come you ain't axin' bout de trins now, kunnel?' an' what you reckon he say?"

"Dunno."

"Dat man wink his eye at me, an' say: 'Uncle Dickey, I got tired er de installment plan; I made one train fetch me two bar'ls!'"

Bronston On Trial.

Hon. C. J. Bronston was on trial yesterday in the Fayette Circuit Court on the charge of maliciously shooting at Col. W. R. Mifflin without wounding.

"Bill" Thorne Gets Back at 'Em.

Former Lieut. Gov. "Bill" Thorne found time to leave his onerous duties as receiver of the "S. O. R. Railway" line to drop in Frankfort to see the Legislators. He says he recently received a communication from President Milton H. Smith, of the L. & N. railroad, informing him that he shortly intended to run up to Eminence, and wanted to know if his private car could be switched over the "Sorry" line. Mr. Thorne says he wrote back that he had referred the communication to his "general superintendent," who would take the matter up at his earliest convenience. According to Mr. Thorne, President J. T. Harahan, of the Illinois Central railroad, also attempted to get gay with him, by writing for some information regarding the Hon. "Bill's" line, to which the latter replied that the "Sorry" line was not as long as some railroad systems, notably the Illinois Central, Louisville & Nashville, Seaboard Air Line and others, but it was "just as wide" as any of them.

Judge Young Reconsiders.

Judge Young of Mt. Sterling, reconsidered his action in refusing bail to Mrs. Sola Kirtley, charged with the murder of her husband, and released her on $500 bond and she returned home.

The action of the Montgomery Circuit Judge was caused by the woman being accompanied to jail by two little children who could not be separated from her. Ed. Flack, the alleged accomplice of the woman, is still in jail.

Divorce Granted Thaw's Sister.

The Countess of Yarmouth, who was Miss Alice Thaw, of Pittsburg was today granted a decree nullifying her marriage of the Earl of Yarmouth. The case was heard in private. The case was practically undefended. The Countess was present, but the Earl was not in court.

By the law of England if a peeress divorces her husband, she is entitled to retain the style and rank of peeress. If, however, she is divorced by her husband, she is no longer entitled to the style which her marriage conferred on her. It is different when a titled wife brings action to nullify the marriage. If she succeeds she is restored to her position before marriage the same as if the marriage had not occurred.

Postage Stamp on Ballot.

One of the strangest things that came to light in the Howard-Woodford contest case from Bourbon county, was when the rejected ballots in a certain precinct were opened and shown to the members of the committee. One of the ballots had no marking save an unusual ten-cent postage stamp pasted under the Socialist emblem.

Pleased With Reform School.

The Joint Committees on Prisons and Houses of Reform are much elated over their visit and official inspection of the State Reform School at Lexington. There are over 400 inmates at the institution, of which number forty-eight are girls. The members of the committee say the place is admirably conducted and the work of the institution productive of much good in the reformation of wayward children.

Big Ear of Corn.

An ear of corn grown near McCloud, Kan., was the other day taken to Kansas City and sold at the Exchange building for $5. It is going to be sent East just to show how long Kansas corn grows. The ear is seventeen inches long.

BIRTHS.

Born, to the wife of Hume Payne, nee Margaret Lyne, Saturday, Jan. 25, a son; second born.

Born, Wednesday, at Denver, Colo., to the wife of Bowen Tate, nee Mary Webb Gass, a son.

Big Contract for Paris Firm.

January & Connell, the enterprising and old reliable dealers in roofing, stores, tinware, plumbing, furnaces, etc., has been awarded another big contract by the L. & N. R. R. They will furnish and put on the slate, tin, galvanized iron and iron work on the two depots, passenger and freight, at London, Ky. They also received contract for putting on galvanized iron and tin on the round house at Livingston, Ky. This is quite a compliment to this firm, showing that the big contracts filled in the past by them have given thorough satisfaction, or they would not continue to get the road's work.

Rockefeller in Bad.

An attorney for John D. Rockefeller has begun negotiations with the receiver of the National Bank of North America to recover $100,000 worth of bonds he loaned the institution and which were pledged at Washington as security for public deposits.

Poor man, it is hoped by a large circle of sympathizing friends that "Rocky" will win out, for it will cause much distress in his family if he should lose this $100,000.

Republican Promises.

Some Republicans of national importance are declaring that after the coming election there will be a special session of Congress called in 1909 to consider the tariff and revise it. It is stated that the Republican platform will so declare. But if a Republican President and a Republican Congress are elected favorable to tariff revision there will still be a Republican majority of the United States Senate, who are so wedded to ultra protection, that any bill for real revision proposed by the House of Representatives will meet decided hostility and would be likely to emerge from the Finance Committee with an adverse report or even higher rates than the present law imposes.

How can platform promises or personal pledges be expected to overcome the entrenched standpatters? The more so as the Republican platform will undoubtedly again declare for the "principle of protection" and under that declaration any Republican Congressman can, if he wants to, vote against the reduction of any schedule or against a reform bill that reduces the protection now enjoyed by any trust, combine or protected manufacturer that would declare that the proposed reduction of a rate would leave their product open to competition from a like foreign product.

For years the game has been played to promises that when "the public interests demand" there will be revision of the tariff schedules but that "work cannot safely be committed to any other hands than those of the Republican party. To intrust it to the Democratic party is to invite disaster." Such was the declaration of the Republican platform of 1904. But the Republican leaders were not satisfied with that declaration and as an evident afterthought then added to the plank the mendacious statement that: "A Democratic tariff has always been followed by business adversity; a Republican tariff by business prosperity." Who therefore can or will believe what they say? Both their statement of adversity and their prognostication of prosperity has proven a false guide to their deluded followers.

As the Republican tariff has fostered trusts and allowed the combines to increase prices and sell cheaper abroad than here; as it has fostered speculation and extravagance, which has resulted in financial panic and business depression, so that many workingmen are hunting jobs with empty stomachs and their wives and children feel the pinch of poverty, will the Republican politicians admit the truth and reform a law that produces such dire results? It is much to be feared that they are wedded to their idols, the protected interests, and their promises are a broken reed to lean on.

The writer of an editorial in the Times Dispatch of Richmond, Va., in commenting on John Temple Graves' acceptance of a position on the New York American, says:

"We doubt not that Editor Graves will make good, but it remains to be seen whether or not he will find a congenial atmosphere in the editorial rooms of the American and in the city of New York. Henry W. Grady once took up his residence in Gotham, but did not remain. The secret of his departure was subsequently revealed by him to Editor Daniels, of the Raleigh News and Observer.

"He related that as he stood at his front door one morning he saw a white hearse standing near by, and finally saw a little white coffin brought out of a neighboring house by the hirelings of the undertaker. It was followed by a man and a woman supposed to be the child's parents, but by them only.

"Another woman stood at her door looking on. Mr. Grady asked of her several questions concerning the child's death, and the woman finally replied: 'I'm sure I don't know; it's no concern of mine.'

"From that moment Mr. Grady determined to shake the dust of Gotham from his feet.

"I resolved then and there" said he, "that I would make my home in no city where the death of a child was no concern of the neighbors."

Futile Trust Busting.

The suit in the Federal courts to annul the charter of the Standard Oil Trusts, goes over the same ground that resulted in that big fine. Trust busting conducted by such gentle means will see most of us quite old before anything practical is accomplished. Why not try prosecute Rockefeller and the other Trust magnates under the criminal section of the anti-trust law?

Another View of Roosevelt.

The recent visit of Joe Chandler Harris to dine with President Roosevelt attracted so much newspaper comment that the account of the trip as told by "Mr. Billy Sanders" in Uncle Remus' Magazine for February is of particular interest. "Mr. Billy Sanders, the Sage of Shady Dale," gives his views of Mr. Roosevelt's personality in the most unqualified manner.

"Well, I come away from the White House mightly hoip up," he says, "feelin' that Teddy is the President of the whole county, an' not of a party, an' that he oughter make up his mind for to run ag'in. He aint been elected but once, an' ever' President is entitled for to, go before the people twice. That's my idee, an' wi' it in my head, I went back to the hotel an' snored as loud as if I'd a been on my own shuck mattress. I felt jest like I had been on a visit to some friend that I hadn't seen in years, an' I went to bed an' dreamed that the men in Wall Street had promised to be reasonably honest after the fust of Jimmaway."

"You wanter shake hands wi' the President if you ever git half a chance. It'll do your whole system good; you wont need any medicine for a considerable spell. He's clean from head to foot an' right through his gizzard; he's healthy an' sane, an' sound and honest, an' what more could you ax a human bein' to be? Talk wi' him, an' then talk wi' other people, an' you'll find that the other people will leave a taste in your month like green persimmons. It's jest like I tell you."

"I hear that Teddy has axed Tom Watson up to see him, an' I'm mighty sorry we war'n't all thar together; ef we had 'a' been you could 'a' retched our hands an' tetch'd the only three gennwine Democrats in North America, all warranted to be free from saddle sore an' things like that."

The Transgressor.

By TROY ALLISON.

Copyrighted, 1907, by E. C. Parcells.

The young rector of St. John's adjusted the student lamp until it threw a mellow light on the library table and then pulled down the window shades. He had just settled himself comfortably in the Morris chair when the bell rang.

In a mere man of the world the slight elevation of the eyebrows produced by the sound of the bell would have been interpreted as despair or disgust at the interruption, but the Rev. John Courtney's only attitude toward the rebellion of the flesh was that he had spent a very busy, trying day and that even ordained flesh craves rest and solitude occasionally.

"You, Miss Manning!" he exclaimed in surprise as the girl was ushered in by the rector's housekeeper.

Marion Manning sat down in the armchair indicated and was silent from the moment's embarrassment.

"I came to ask your advice, Mr. Courtney. I'm in trouble," she said finally.

The rector wondered what could have happened in the quiet town to have brought such evident consternation to his young parishioner. Since his installation as rector of St. John's, six months before, he had known the girl and had become accustomed to meeting her at every function as the life and mirth of the occasion. Her look of woe was entirely unfamiliar to him.

"I'm very sorry, Miss Marion. What has happened?" he asked, with real concern.

"Nothing has happened, but I've committed a crime against the government," she said hopelessly.

"That sounds very grave."

The rector could not for the life of him keep from smiling at the innocent look of the self confessed criminal.

The girl spoke with a flash of spirit. "You probably will not smile when I tell you the whole of it. I don't know, but I think I could be imprisoned if it were found out."

The rector still had difficulty in preserving a proper amount of gravity.

"Suppose you tell me all about it," he said.

She handed him a long official envelope.

"I have just received an appointment as a $900 clerk in the pension office at Washington," she said dolefully.

He took the envelope and looked at the appointment with less pleasure than he should have shown in view of the fact that he had known all the summer how anxiously the girl had

Pension for Mothers.

The pensioning of mothers by the state is advocated by a University of Chicago lecturer. The professor thinks the pension should increase in amount up to the third child, and then decrease until the advent of the sixth, when it should cease. This seems to be a sort of compromise between antirace suicide and socialism.

Medicine That is Medicine.

"I have suffered a good deal with malaria and stomach complaints, but I have now found a remedy that keeps me well, and that remedy is Electric Bitters: a medicine that is medicine for stomach and liver troubles, and for run down conditions," says W. C. Kiestler, of Halliday, Ark. Electric Bitters, purify and enrich the blood, tone up the nerves, and impart vigor and energy to the weak. Your money will be refunded if it fails to help you. 50c at Obedofer's drug store. feb

Mail Subscribers Must Pay in Advance.

The United States Postoffice Department has issued an order, No. 907, dated December 4, 1907, amending the postal regulations, which will hereafter compel newspapers to enforce business principles in their circulation department and probably reduce the press-room waste that has cut some figure in the recent 50 per cent. advance in the price of white paper.

The new order is intended to reduce the volume of second-class mail matter made up of newspapers and magazines, which the government now carries at one cent a pound, entailing a big annual loss to the postoffice department.

It practically limits the use of the mails at these cheap postage rates to papers sent to bona-fide subscribers, paid in advance, and publishers will be fined four cents for every pound of mail sent out in violation of the regulations.

In order that the new rule may not be harsh in its application, the postoffice department has provided that a reasonable time shall be allowed to publishers to secure renewals of subscriptions before cutting off subscribers whose time has expired or who are in arrears. This time allowed is fixed at months 3 for daily papers, 9 months for semi-weekly papers, and four months for monthly magazines.

Under the operation of this rule publishers will find an amount equal to the transcurrent postage rates, four cents a pound, for every daily newspaper sent to subscribers over three months in arrears and for every semi-weekly newspaper sent to a subscriber nine months in arrears.

Publishers generally will, we believe, be glad that this regulation has been made by the Postoffice Department, as it will effectively settle the question whether mail subscribers should be cut off at the expiration of their subscriptions. In the past it often happened that subscribers who were carried over the time for which they had paid complained because they were not discontinued, while others who were promptly cut off at expiration took offense and felt that this was an imputation on their honesty or ability to pay.

The new regulation establishes for the future a business-like custom that it is fair to publishers and subscribers, and relieves the matter of all embarrassment to either side.

There is no doubt that the old custom was abused by publishers and subscribers, by the former in sending papers and bills to people who wished to discontinue and by the latter in accepting and reading papers and then refusing to pay for the ground that the subscription had expired.

In compliance with the new law we will at once send out bills and renewal notices to all mail subscribers who may be in arrears, and hopes to have prompt responses in order that there may be no violation on our part.

In the past we have never used these columns to urge payment of subscriptions or arrearages, leaving such business details to the circulation department, but we believe the new postal regulations, requiring that all subscribers be cut off if nine months in arrears, on penalty of forfeiture of second-class postage privileges, justifies this explanation, which will be run in several issues in order that all our mail subscribers may understand the new order of things.

"IT IS AN INVOLVED POINT OF ETHICS, MISS MARION," HE SAID FEELY.

He hoped to hear from the civil service examination which she had taken in the spring.

"Where does the crime against the government come in?" he asked, looking helplessly from the innocent face to the innocent appointment to office.

"You know, I went to Columbia to take the examination. Well, if you remember, my friend Rose Lawrence went with me to keep me company and to buy her spring hat."

Mr. Courtney was more at sea mentally than before the introduction of a second character and a spring hat.

"Did she—er—buy the—er—hat?" he asked helplessly and from merely polite motives.

"Of course she bought a hat. You don't suppose that I have come here to tell you that we stole a spring hat, do you?" Miss Manning's scorn was withering, and the rector, who had always been considered the bravest of the brave and who owned college trophies for feats of sport and daring, sat abashed and humble before her.

"Er—certainly not—of course not. Miss Marion. I only thought I would try to talk about hats until you felt more at ease."

The girl's eyes twinkled.

"I would really like to hear you try to discuss spring millinery, Mr. Courtney, some day when I feel like laughing, but tonight—I don't feel like laughing a bit. The trouble is this: The morning the examination was held I was so sick I couldn't hold up my head, and Rose took the card admitting me to the examination and stood it for me."

The rector sat upright and gave an ministerial whistle.

"You poor little girl," he said comprehensively.

"I have come to argue with you as to whether I can accept the appointment," the girl continued. "I want it, and I need it badly. There is no doubt that I could have passed the examination as cordially, or even more so, than Rose did. We were in the same classes at school, and my marks were always higher than hers."

The rector indulged in the—unusual luxury of fidgeting in his chair and mopping his forehead with his handkerchief.

"It is an involved point of ethics, Miss Marion," he said feebly.

"I want you to clear it up for me, but I'm afraid I want you to see it my way," she acknowledged.

"You have come to fortify yourself by getting me to substantiate your opinion that you are justified in accepting the appointment?" he asked slowly.

"We will accept the premises that there was no fraud premeditated, that there was no reason for your preferring Miss Lawrence to take the examination except that you were temporarily too ill. You are by education entirely qualified to fill the position, and I think we may also claim that you have a more practical business mind and a stronger physique than Miss Lawrence, both of these being recognized as desirable business qualifications."

The girl's face grew brighter, and she nodded her head eagerly.

"You don't see how you could possibly be injuring any one. If you filled the position satisfactorily, you can't understand how you could be defrauding the government. I don't see that either," the rector concluded musingly.

The girl's face beamed upon him.

"Then you think I may take it? I need it so badly," she spoke with rapid intensity.

The rector leaned over and took her hand.

"Do you think you could feel happy and satisfied, little girl?" he asked, looking her squarely in the eyes.

Her eyes wavered and finally turned away from his.

"I thought perhaps I could, if you told me it was all right," she said faintly.

"I don't know how to explain it to you—it is a proof that is powerful, yet intangibly abstract. I can logically see no wrong in your accepting the position, yet I could not be happy to do so, and I feel sure you could not either."

"But I need it so badly," she faltered. "I only have $50 a year of my own, and I can't expect Uncle James to take care of me forever. I'm old enough to be self supporting."

The rector's countenance commenced steadily growing redder and redder.

"There are other things you could do," he said finally, with no trace of his usual brilliancy of speech.

"What?" she asked, her young voice stern, with the responsibility of giving up something upon which her heart was set.

"I wish you would come and make the rector homelike for me," he stammered.

"A minister couldn't marry a fraud and a cheat," she whispered, her face pallid.

"Little girl, you are not a cheat—you simply met with a temptation. Will you go to Washington or will you come to the rectory?"

She picked up the official envelope that had fallen to the floor and looked at him hesitatingly.

"I don't think I'm good enough for a minister's wife, but you can be the judge in the case."

He caught a glimpse of her eyes and pronounced his sentence:

"Imprisoned for life, little woman," he said, taking her in his arms.

He Brought Them.

The story of how William Le Baron Jenney saved a section of Grant's army at Shiloh not only illustrates Jenney's resourcefulness as an engineer, but throws an interesting side light on the great general.

Part of Grant's troops, almost overwhelmed, were holding the river bank. It was imperative that they be brought across. Grant ordered Jenney to bring them. Jenney rode down and discovered some rusty, battered steamers which had not had fire in them for weeks. There was no wood, coal or other fuel. He rode to Grant and reported.

"What did I send you down there to do?" asked Grant quietly.

"Why," stammered Jenney, "to bring those troops across."

"Well," rejoined Grant, "go bring them."

Jenney went. He had the order. First he tore away the upper works, wheelhouses and decks and fed them to the furnaces. Nothing more was in sight. An inspiration seized him. He leaped on the commissary stores, and he got up steam and brought those troops across by burning thousands of dollars' worth of hams and crackers in the furnaces.

The hams and crackers were charged to Grant's personal account, and he as a joke switched and charged it against Jenney's salary, and it was canceled after the war.—Chicago Tribune.

He Was Short.

Joakley—Queer thing about that tall man over there. All his intimate friends call him "Short." Joakley—Ah, just for a joke, I suppose. Joakley—No, because that's his name.

He Knew Her.

Mrs. Boofler (meditatively over her book)—How true this is! Mr. Boofler (bracing himself)—Well, Maria, don't just for a joke, I suppose. Joakley—No, because that's his name.

A WORD in Regard to Catalogue Houses.

We are aware of the fact that a large per cent. of the Vehicle buyers are under the impression that they can obtain a vehicle from a Catalogue House Cheaper than from a dealer.

We can furnish the Same Vehicle from the same factory and on the same terms as one of the largest Catalogue Houses and save you the freight.

The following is a partial list with prices on same:

Catalogue No.	Style of Vehicle.	Price.
No. 11 K 714	Buggy "Leader"	$ 49.95
No. 11 K 628	Buggy "Leader"	64.95
No. 11 K 130	Buggy	36.95
No. 11 K 1015	Runabout	32.15
No. 11 K 9206	Runabout	49.95
No. 11 K 1400	Surrey	58.95
No. 11 K 1447	Surrey	104.95
No. 11 K 101	Cart	14.65

The two buggies marked "LEADER" are the ones they sell the most of. Call and see us before you order. However, we do not advocate the purchase of that class of goods.

Vast Acreage Pledge.

Before one of the largest gatherings of tobacco growers ever seen at Frankfort Harry Weissenger, of Shelbyville, Tuesday urged them to "cut out" the 1908 crop. He insisted that the root of the evil was the tax placed on the manufacture of tobacco, and urged that the growers begin a systematic campaign to influence the National Congress to remove the tax. In Owen, Scott, Bath, Mason, Grant, Boone, Gallatin and Carroll counties 90 per cent. of the tobacco acreage has been signed up as against the 1908 crop. In Franklin county 2,600 out of 3,000 acres have been signed up, and the same conditions prevail throughout the burley district. The next meeting of the District Committee will be held Monday, at Winchester.

Plain Words.

At a mass meeting of leading negroes at Nashville, Tenn., Wednesday resolutions were adopted indorsing Joseph B. Foraker for President. Hot shots were hurled at Roosevelt, McKinley was criticised and Taft's name was hooted. In speaking of the recent Republican convention held there one speaker said: "No decent white man belongs to the Republican party in the South. The Republicans don't care anything about the negro, but ride him to death with whip and spur. I had rather vote for a decent Democrat any time than the kind of men who make up the Republican party of the South."

A Vexing Question.

What will be done with the present historic old Statehouse and executive building at Frankfort where the business of the State Government is transferred to the handsome new Capitol is a question that is being asked on all sides, and is giving the members of the Legislature as well as the people of Frankfort much concern.

There was some talk of converting the east wing, in which the various departments of the State government are now located, into a court house, which Franklin county is in great need of, the recent grand jury having condemned the present ramshackle affair which does duty as a temple of justice. Now, however, a new idea has been advanced by prominent business men, including Dr. E. E. Hume, Mayor of Frankfort. Their object is to convert the State buildings into a State Normal School, using the old pile which is now used for the meetings of the Legislature, Court of Appeals chamber and State Library for a law department. It is argued by the promoters that a State law school with the advantages and surroundings that such an institution would have would soon become the equal of any in this country.

Want Recognition.

The negroes of Kentucky want one of their number to go as a delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention. If one of them secures the post of honor it will be over the dead body, politically speaking, of the Taft faction.

Ed Small Almost Scalped.

Ed. Small, a well-known negro blacksmith, became boisterous in the saloon on Main street by French Thompson, colored, and it is said, jerked out a pistol and attempted to shoot the bartender, Arthur Anderson, colored. The weapon failed to go off and in the meantime Anderson proceeded to carve Small up, and he succeeded in nearly scalping him.

Cutting Scrape.

John McDuffy, white, and Sam Calameese, colored, became involved in a difficulty on Eighth street, Tuesday night, resulting in Calameese cutting Duffy three times—once over the heart, once over the spleen and once in the abdomen. McDuffy was taken to a Lexington hospital by Dr. Bruce Anderson, his wounds being of a serious nature.

Chief of Police Hill arrested Calameese Wednesday, who is now in jail awaiting trial, being unable to give $500 bond.

Cold Reception for Canning Factory Man.

W. Len Hardin, the canning factory representative, was at the court house Wednesday to meet the business men of Paris and Bourbon county, in regard to starting the canning factory enterprise here. His coming was published in the city papers, but not a single man was present to consult with him on the subject or to hear him tell of the advantages such an enterprise would be to our city. Well, it is "wrong to knock," you must "always boast," so comment is unnecessary.

Parisians Join Lexington Eagles.

The following Parisians were escorted to Lexington Monday night by H. O. James, T. F. Brannon, Geo. Gregory and Joe Rose and were initiated into the mysteries of Combs Aerie, No. 66, Fraternal Order of Eagles: Ray Harris, Ed. Slattery, Leer Stout Harry Saloshin, Phil. Deignan, Newt Current, James Porter, John Swartz, Frank Lyons, Jas. Connally, John Malaney, Wm. Higgins, Jas. Higgins and Harry Holt. The gentlemen who escorted these candidates had been members of the Eagles for years. It is one of the largest orders in the country.

Weekly Spelling Bees.

Finding a lack of proficiency on the part of many of the Paris High School pupils in the important study of spelling, the faculty decided to review the whole spelling book. Lessons of many pages are assigned and the last period of each Friday is occupied by the old-fashioned "spelling match." The girls spell on one side and the boys on the other.

There have been two contests already, the boys winning the first and the girls the second. Last Friday when twenty pages of hard spelling had been completed it was found that eighteen girls and 27 boys had been turned down, and that 9 boys remained on the floor and 11 girls stood opposite to them ready to spell almost any word the teacher could pronounce. Next Friday the contest will be resumed. Much interest is being manifested.

A General Mix-Up.

The affairs in regard to the free-for-all fight at the L. & N. depot Monday evening as we get them are as follows: Mr. O. E. Phillips, of this city, walked to the Cynthiana commuter train Monday evening with Mr. Millard Clifford, of Cynthiana. They entered a coach and took their seats. Presently Charlie and Bob Morrison, of Cynthiana, entered the coach and began to show fight and to demonstrate that they were "bad men from Bitter creek." One of them approached Mr. Clifford and landed on him with a pair of brass knucks. Phillips endeavored to get out of the way when the other Morrison struck at him with a knife. Phillips' eye caught a poker sitting in the corner of the car, which he grabbed and began to work on the Mr. Morrison that attacked him and he was soon laid low. The brass-knucks artis then made for Phillips and he was in a short time sleeping as quietly as a lamb. Mr. Clifford received a severe cut in the head from the knucks and the two Morrison brothers are nursing a number of bad cuts and bruises in their heads at their homes in Harrison county. Phillips escaped hurt and was congratulated by the standees for his nice work.

Representative Elliott B. Beard, of Shelby county, introduced in the House a most drastic measure to prohibit railroads or common carriers from engaging in any other business, and to prevent them from holding, owing, leasing or acquiring any mines, factories or timber, except such as may be necessary to carry on their business, or any interest therein.

Heavy penalties are provided for violation, and the Railroad Commission and State Inspector and Examiner are given compulsory power to secure information from the corporations affected, or their agents and the production of books, papers and other evidence.

The bill is designed to carry into effect the provision of section 210 of the Kentucky Constitution, each succeeding session of the General Assembly since the adoption of the organic law having failed to enact any laws to give effect to this section.

John Doty's Sale.

At the public sale and renting of John Doty, near Shawhan, yesterday, the following prices were realized: Sixteen acres of corn land rented at $10.45 per acre; 16 acres in wheat at $6.00; 25 acres good meadow, $3.50. J. T. Richie was the renter. Work horses, $140; seven-year-old mare, $125; pair mules, $185; three milch cows $38 to $71; four brood sows, $12 to $18; Poland China boar, $10; 70-lb. shoats, $2.65 per head; 100 shocks of fodder, six cents per shock; agricultural implements sold high. Good crowd in attendance. Geo. Speakes, auctioneer, and Bev. Dorsey, clerk.

RELIGIOUS.

The union services of the Presbyterian churches of Paris will be held next Sabbath in the Second Presbyterian church, corner Sixth and Pleasant streets. Rev. Joseph S. Malone, pastor of the First church, will preach at both services. Subject at morning service, "Church, the Light" in the evening, "The Ministry of the Clouds."

— Elder Carey E. Morgan, the pastor, will preach Sunday morning and evening at the Christian church. Morning subject, "A Word Used Four Times by the Savior in His Charge to the Church." Evening subject, the second sermon on "The Problem of Living With Others."

PERSONAL MENTION.

Judge Denis Dundon and Robt. C. Talbott were in Frankfort yesterday.

Mrs. June Payne, of Lebanon, Va., is visiting relatives in this city and county.

General Passenger Agent Bush, of the L. & N., was a pleasant caller at the News office yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Neely will leave next week to spend a number of weeks in the South. They will go to Florida first.

Mr. F. P. Clay, Sr., of near Elizabeth, this county, continues quite ill. He is in his 89th year, and one of Bourbon's most prominent citizens.

Miss Mary A. McCarthy has gone to Winchester to be at the bedside of Miss Nannie Higgins, who fell on the street in that city and broke her hip.

Mrs. Joseph S. Warnick, who has been confined to her room with grip, is reported better. Baby Mildred Warnick is seriously ill with pneumonia and mumps.

Dr. Oberdorfer and daughters, Misses Rosa Lee and Henrietta Oberdorfer, have gone to housekeeping in one of Dr. Campbell's new cottages on High street.

A cablegram to Mrs. L. J. Fretwell announces the safe arrival of her daughter, Mrs. Anne Prichard, and Mrs. Allie Dickson, also of Bourbon, at Gibraltar. Both are enjoying good health.

Bill to Repeal Racing Commission.

An act, which even a number of Republicans admits was introduced for some political effect, was offered in the Senate Wednesday by Senator A. J. Oliver, of Allen county, a Republican. It is to repeal the act creating the State Racing Commission.

Another bill, introduced by Senator Oliver at the same time, prohibits betting on horse races in the State. Considerable comment was caused on all sides by the introduction of these bills, and the query was general as to what is behind them.

State Bank Examiner.

The House Committee on Banks and Banking met late Tuesday afternoon and decided to report favorably the Sullivan bill, providing for the appointment of a State Board of Bank Examiners to examine the State banks in Kentucky. This provides for State inspection and a guarantee by the State of the State banks, in the same way that the national banks are examined by the national government. The bill was reported in the House Wednesday.

For Mexican Veterans.

Over 200 Mexican War pensioners in Kentucky will be interested in a bill introduced by Representative Hull increasing Mexican War pensions to $30 a month. Veterans are now getting $20.

C. W. B. M.

The regular monthly meeting of the C. W. B. M. will be held in the parlors of the Christian church this afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

Merchants' Meeting Postponed.

The meeting of the Retail Merchants Association, which was to have been held Tuesday night to make arrangements for entertaining the delegates to the State meeting which convenes in this city April 28-29, was postponed on account of the inclement weather. The meeting will be held next Tuesday night, when committees will be appointed and other arrangements made for holding the convention.

STOMACH IS SEAT OF HUMAN LIFE

New Theory Advanced by Young Man Is Spreading Over Entire Country.

L. T. Cooper's theory concerning the human stomach, which he claims to prove with his new medicine, is being given more respect and comment every day.

Cooper claims that 90 per cent. of all ill health is due to stomach trouble. When interviewed about his theory recently, he said: "Stomach trouble is the great curse of the 20th century so far as the civilized races are concerned. Practically all of the chronic ill health of this generation is caused by abnormal stomachic conditions. In earlier days, when the human race was closer to nature, and men and women worked all day out of doors, digging their frugal existence from the soil, the tired, droopy, half-sick people that are now so common, did not exist.

"To be sure, there was sickness in those days, but it was of a virulent character, and only temporary. There was none of this half-sick condition all the time with which so many are afflicted nowadays.

"I know positively that every bit of this chronic ill health is caused by stomach trouble. The human stomach in civilized people today is degenerate. It lacks tone and strength. This weakness has gradually come through a sedentary existence. I further know that few people can be sick with the digestive apparatus in perfect shape. The sole reason for my success is because my New Discovery medicine tones the stomach up to required strength in about six weeks' time. That is why I have had more people come and thank me wherever I have gone to introduce my medicine, than I have had time to talk with."

Among the immense numbers of people who are now strong believers in Cooper's theory and medicine is Mrs. M. E. Delano, prominent resident of the suburb of Brookline, Boston, Mass.

She says: "For several years I was worn out, caused primarily by stomach and nerve troubles. I gradually became worse, until recently I was compelled to go without solid food for days at a time. I had sour stomach, painful contractions of the nerves of stomach and heart, dyspepsia, and extreme nervousness. I suffered terribly with insomnia, and my liver, bowels and whole system gradually became deranged. I felt instant relief the first day I began this Cooper medicine. I now feel like a new being. Today I walked all over town, shopping—something I have not done for years.

"I make this statement wholly from a sense of duty. I feel I owe it to anyone who might find relief and renewed happiness as I have done."

The record made by the Cooper medicines is astonishing. We will take pleasure in discussing it with anyone who wishes to know about them.

SPIDER AIRSHIPS.

How the Young Insects Sail Away With the Wind.

In early autumn the spider families separate. Hundreds of thousands of infantile spiders on a warm sunny morning scale the low bushes, cling to the tips of the leaves and project slender silken threads from the spinners at the ends of their bodies. Before very long the air near the ground, becoming heated, ascends and carries up the silken threads with it. Still the little creatures hold on and pour out silk till each has some eight or ten feet of line rising almost perpendicularly into the air above it.

At last they let go and rise into the air themselves, each at the extremity of its own thread. In this way they are carried upward, perhaps for many hundreds of feet, till at last they meet a current of air moving slowly along, and by this they are carried often for many miles, while they can always descend at will by the simple expedient of rolling up their supporting threads.

On a warm autumn morning the air is often filled with these baby spiders, each sailing securely on its own little silken airship. When they descend bushes, trees and low plants are frequently covered with their gossamer threads.—London Standard.

A LESSON IN LATIN.

Criticism to Which the Duke of Wellington Objected.

Discussion of the best pronunciation of Latin recalls to the Liverpool Post a story about the Duke of Wellington. It was about the year 1814, and the chancellor in his gorgeous robes was reading the honor list aloud. The list was, of course, in Latin, and Wellington knew more about the handling of brigades than about Latin quantities. Whenever the name Caroibus occurred the duke persisted in pronouncing the "o" long—"Caroibus."

It was at last too much for one of the doms standing behind him, so, leaning over, he whispered, "If your grace will excuse me, I should like to point out that at Oxford we call that word 'Caroibus.'"

"Very good," said the duke. "Thank you. I'll remember." Presently came the name Jacobus, which, mindful of his lesson, he pronounced "Jacobus."

Again the dom leaned over. "I humbly beg your grace's pardon, but that name is 'Jaco-bus.'"

"Hang it all," muttered Wellington, "you can't chop and change like that! Caroibus and Jaco-bus or Caroibus and Jacobus, whichever you like. But stick to your own rules, if you please."

A PROPER EPITHET.

Easy Way in Which a Domestic Rupture Was Averted.

The troubles which are brought to a parish priest for solution are almost infinite in their variety. In a certain Prussian village, says Friederich August Dresser in "Mohle in His Home," an old woman came to her spiritual adviser and proposed a separation from her husband.

"If he would beat me," she said, "that would be all right; that would show that he was really my man. But he calls me worse names; he calls me a 'subject'! I will not stand for that!"

"So, 'subject,' eh?" said the priest. "Yes, that is bad. It is a bad word. I did not think he would say that. But are you sure you understand? Did he say 'subject' or 'object'?"

The old woman shook her head. She was not certain. The priest smiled serenely.

"Ah, I thought so," he said. "Now, I am sure that is what he called you. 'Subject' would have been very bad. It would be hard to forgive that, but 'object,' pooh, it is nothing. If at all, it flatters one."

The woman laughed happily. "And, then, I need not leave him? I can still keep him for my man?" she asked eagerly.

"Certainly," said her mentor, "and rejoice. 'Object,' that is very fine, very! I was sure he did not say 'subject'!"

She went away entirely satisfied, and the priest heard of no future disagreements between the couple.

PIPES AND CIGARS.

Smoking Said to Serve as an Index to Character.

A person who smokes a cigar with the label band on it is always a vulgarian; a person who displays two inches of ash adhering to a cigar is generally ostentatious; a person who selects a cigar because it is sprinkled with light spots is an ignoramus who credits any popular report, and a person who chews up the end of a cigar or a cigarette is more often than not of an irascible or peevish nature. So says the London Tribune, which adds:

Smoking is also a great test of natural courtesy in any individual. One can trace selfishness, boorishness, self-assertiveness, timidity or good temper in a smoker's demeanor in any mixed company. Judging upon the example of Mr. Kipling, it has been asserted that the man who knocks his pipe ashes out behind the parlor couch is usually a goner. But this is a somewhat empty assertion, and at any rate it comprises a belief that is in nowise shared by housewives and ladies.

As a concluding rule for diagnosing character by tobacco habits, it may be accepted that the best men smoke quietly and without ostentation, offer you a good cigar without a preparatory oration on its cost and merits and smoke their pipes and cigars out to the end. When a man is concerned because his friends are not smoking with him, he is a person to be cultivated.

Her Stipulation.

When a rosy-cheeked, good-natured Irish girl fresh from the other side recently sought employment in the service of a German woman, the latter began anxiously to interrogate the girl as to her qualifications.

"Can you cook, Nora?" asked the lady most earnestly. "Are you a good cook?"

"Yes, mum, I think so," responded the girl naively, "if you'll not try to help me."—Harper's Weekly.

The Main Thing.

"You told him to diet, didn't you?" asked the young doctor.

"Yes," replied the old one; "I told him to eat only the plainest food and as little as possible."

"But this case has been chronic so long do you think that will help him?"

"Well, it will help him to pay my bill."—St. Louis Republic.

Odd Epitaph.

A traveler in Ireland recently saw upon an old tombstone over there this epitaph:

DR. HENRY JONES.

Reader, behold with gravity, For here lies Dentist Jones, Filling his last cavity.

Man is a noble animal, splendid in ashes and pompous in the grave.—Brown.

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts, dentists and physicians.

With the endorsement of the very best, reliable for the disease for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not properly treated, are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

A Misunderstood Jest.

Lord Lytton when viceroy of India was seated one day at dinner next to a lady whose name was Birch and who, though very good looking, was not overintelligent. Said she to his excellency:

"Are you acquainted with any of the Birches?"

"Oh, yes!" replied Lord Lytton. "I knew several of them most intimately while at Eton—indeed, more intimately than I cared to."

"My lord," replied the lady, "you forgot the Birches are relatives of mine."

"And they cut me," said the viceroy,

"but," and he smiled his wonted smile, "I have never felt more inclined to kiss the rod than I do now."

Sad to say, Mrs. Birch did not see the point and told her husband his excellency had insulted her.

A Dumas Story.

Dumas the elder was rarely spiteful to or about his fellow men, but one day, when he happened to be in that mood, a friend called to tell him a piece of news. "They have just given M. X. the Legion of Honor," he said. Then he added in a significant tone, "Now, can you imagine why they should have given it to him?"

"Yes," answered the great dramatist promptly. "They have given it to him because he was without it."

The French Brand.

Customer—Why is a pipe made from French briar root better than one made from American briar root? Tobacco—Because anything that's French is a little tougher than the same thing in any other country.—Chicago Tribune.

Those Girls.

She—He kissed me when I was not dreaming of such a thing. Her—I'll wager you were not. You always were wide awake when kissing was in sight.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

In Training.

Mamma—Remember, Ivor, you'll have to be a soldier one day.

Ivor—I know, mamma. Nurse takes me to the barracks every day.—London Telegraph.

What is just and right is the law of law.—Latin Proverb.

Crowded Out.

"I am thirty-five years old," announced a woman of fifty-six at a tea last week.

"And I am twenty-six," said the woman of forty-five. Then, turning to a girl of seventeen who stood near by, she asked, "How old are you, Ethel?"

"Oh," replied Ethel, "according to present reckoning, I'm not born yet!"

The Smallpox Devil.

The natives of the west coast of Sumatra object to being vaccinated. They still make offerings to the smallpox devil. The heart and liver of fowls and buffaloes are mixed with yellow rice and other ingredients, placed in the model of a full rigged ship, carried in procession and finally launched into the sea.—Singapore Free Press.

Proof.

Skrappy—When I married you I had no idea you were such a fool. Mrs. Skrappy—The very fact of my consenting to be your wife should have removed any doubts you had on that point.—Illustrated Bits.

With a Little Help.

"Your customs are enough to make any civilized man boil!" exclaimed the missionary indignantly.

"With the help of a little dry wood." Assented the cannibals gravely.—Fucks.

A Simple Recipe.
Everybody in Cedarby owned that Mrs. Hanson was the queen of cooks, but they were likely to add that when it came to explaining the processes by which she arrived at her excellent results she left a good deal to be desired.

"Your scalloped oysters are the best we ever have at our church suppers or anywhere, and you know it," said a neighbor, endeavoring to win special favor from this culinary goddess. "Most folks get 'em either too wet or too dry. I tell 'em I don't know how you manage it so yours are always just right. I don't suppose you could tell exactly yourself."

"Why, yes, I could," and Mrs. Hanson smiled indulgently at the eager, hopeful face of her neighbor. "All I do is butter the dish, put in a layer of oysters, salted and peppered, then a layer of buttered crumbs, then a layer of milk and back to oysters again. Easy as pie, 'tis."

"A 'layer' of milk?" faltered the neighbor.

"Why, yes," said Mrs. Hanson cheerfully. "That's what makes 'em about right—layer of oysters, layer of crumbs and layer of milk. Leastways that's what I do, and you say you like 'em!"—Youth's Companion.

—Wednesday was one of the roughest days ever experienced here, especially in the early morning. Early Tuesday night it began snowing very hard. Later in the night it changed to sleet and in the early morning, the weather being warmer, it was converted into rain. The ground being frozen underneath it could not absorb the melting snow and sleet, and for several hours water stood at the depth of three inches on the streets and sidewalks. The ice began breaking in Hinkston about noon and by night the creek was very high and many of the smaller streams were out of their banks.

—The Bourbon Steam Laundry is one of the best in the State. It does not tear your laundry and it is thoroughly cleaned when returned. No chemicals are used which will rot the goods. Prices reasonable and our basket goes every Thursday morning. Call by Home phone 3 and we will call for it and return it.

Increased Liquor Licenses.

An increase in the cost of liquor licenses in cities of the second class, from $150 to $500 is provided for in a bill which was introduced in the Senate Wednesday and it is probable that the bill will have smooth passage through both houses, as all interested are in favor of it. The cities of the second class have agreed on the bill, and there will be no opposition from any of them on the subject. The bill provides simply that the minimum liquor license shall be $500, instead of $150, as it is at present.

Save Money by Buying Chamberlain's Cough Cure.

You will pay just as much for a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as for any of the other cough medicines, but you save money in buying it. The saving is in what you get, not what you pay. The sure-to-cure you quality is in every bottle of this remedy, and you get good results when you take it.

Neglected colds often develop serious conditions, and when you buy a cough medicine you want to be sure you are getting one that will cure your cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy always cures. Price 25 and 50 cents a bottle. For sale by W. T. Brooks. You need no other guarantee.

Rev. T. W. Watts, of the Methodist church, will begin a revival meeting Sunday night, and will be assisted by Rev. Strother, of Paris, beginning Monday night.

Has Proven Good Law.

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature affixing the death penalty or confinement in the penitentiary for the crime of burglary. North Carolina has a law like this and it is said that it works well. It has nearly put a stop to burglary. It sometimes happens that a burglar when cornered becomes a murderer. He will not hesitate to take life if it is necessary to his own safety.

To Change Code of Practice.

Representative John Feland, of Hopkinsville, yesterday introduced a bill in the House to change the code of practice. The bill provides that in all the litigation where any city or incorporated town has an interest, either as plaintiff or defendant, the jury shall be selected from the county outside the city. According to the author, the present system of securing a jury in these cases works a hardship to plaintiffs in damage suits against a town or city, as the attorneys on the other side in their arguments to the jury, on which in most cases are residents of the city, dwell on the fact that should they allow damages to them, as taxpayers, will be the ones who will have to pay the judgment. Mr. Feland says this usually does the work.

Executor's Sale

—OF—

Bourbon Co. Lands.

As executor of the will of John H. Hamilton deceased, I will sell publicly, at the court house door, in Paris, Ky., at 11 o'clock, a.m. on the John H. Hamilton farm of about 267 acres of land, situate in Bourbon County, two miles West of Millersburg, and on the Millersburg and Riddles Mills pike. Said pike divides the farm into two parts and these parts will be sold separately and not offered as a whole.

PART NO. 1,

lying on the North-West side of said pike, contains about 220 acres (subject to survey) and has on it a good, comfortable two-story farm house recently renovated thoroughly inside and out, besides barns, cribs, and all necessary out-houses including a first-class meat house and a cabin in the yard. There is also tenant house on the farm in fair condition.

There is an abundance of never-failing water convenient to every field.

The farm has been for a generation in the hands of an owner who never rented it out, and knew how to handle and care for land and it is in first-class condition and well fenced.

It has on it about 15 acres of growing wheat and about 21 acres of growing rye, the whole of which crops will go to the purchaser.

lies on the South-East side of said pike, contains about 47 acres (subject to survey) and is all in grass and well watered. This small tract furnishes a splendid chance for any one who wants a small body of first-class Bourbon County land.

TERMS OF SALE.—One third cash, one third in one year and one third in two years, the deferred payments to bear 6 per cent interest from day of sale until paid and to be a lien upon the land, but purchaser may pay all cash.

Immediate possession given.

Costly Opera Glasses.

Mr. Slinger, of sewing machine fame, paid $60,000 for a pair of opera glasses. The lenses are, of course, the best obtainable, but it was the fact that the "glasses" were of solid gold, surrounded by a lyre incrusted with diamonds and sapphires, that accounted for the price.

Napoleonic Foresight.
Napoleon was crossing the Alps. Fine business. Some day some one will write this up, and then I will be known as Napoleon the Great. Chuckling at his foresight, he lighted a Pittsburg stogie and continued faring.
